California State University San Bernardino
School of Computer Science and Engineering

CSE 595 Independent Study Presentation

Date

June 10, 2016

Time

12:30 PM

Place

JB 359

Title

Django a Python Approach to Web Development

Student

James Moseley

Advisor

Dr. David Turner

Abstract

Created a multiple database Django app. Where each section of the project has its own database. This is accomplished by using routers. Database setup using models to create tables inside the database. The use of forms to get data from the user and modify the database or return data to the user to modify.. Explain the Django templating system and its ability to inherit.